Our students had an exciting opportunity to attend the shoot of Wheel of Fortune, gaining a firsthand look at the fast-paced world of television production.

From observing how large-scale TV shows are executed to understanding the coordination behind the scenes, students got to see how a professional television set operates—from camera setups and production cues to the teamwork required to bring a show to life.

One of the highlights of the visit was the chance to interact with the host, Akshay Kumar, making the experience even more memorable for everyone present.

Experiential learning like this helps our students connect classroom knowledge with real industry practices, giving them meaningful insights into the world of television and media.

A memorable day filled with learning, excitement, and inspiration!
